Conference on experimental research in accounting

Location: KU Leuven – June 2-3, 2017

Experimental research in accounting is growing across the globe in disciplines such as auditing, financial accounting and managerial accounting. ENEAR is therefore proud to present its first international conference on experimental research in accounting. After a successful summer school in July 2015 organized at Amsterdam (UvA), we continue our mission in the training of young scholars that want to pursue a career in experimental accounting research. We therefore invite experimental work, especially of young scholars, tenured faculty, non-tenured faculty, and PhD students who are approaching the last stages of their PhD phase. Papers can be co-authored with senior faculty, but we encourage junior faculty members to present. Discussants from the community will be invited to discuss each paper (each paper is allocated a slot of 45 min).

We also have invited Prof. Jasmijn Bol (Tulane University) and Prof. Kathryn Kadous (Emory University) as plenary speakers for our first conference.

Practicalities – Call for Papers

Full paper submission deadline: April 15th; Please send your paper to: enear@kuleuven.be

To encourage interaction among participants, only a limited number of papers will be accepted for presentations. The organization committee will inform you about the decision around April 30.

Discussants will be selected among conference participants and tenured faculty. The conference is open to all members of our research society. In case you want to volunteer as discussant, please let us know on the same e-mail address.

The conference will start Friday June, 2nd around noon at KU Leuven (Naamsestraat 69, B-3000 Leuven) and will end around 13u00 on June 3th. Friday evening a diner will be scheduled for all conference members.

Registration fee: 150 euro includes access to accepted papers, coffees, lunch and dinner.

Payments can be made via our site and should be executed before May 15th (Payment link)

We look forward to your submissions. In case of any questions, please feel free to contact us.
